Please read the testimonials below proclaiming the advantages of doublecheckmd.com:

“Ever since the doublecheckmd.com website became available online, I’ve been using it to identify the source of medication side effects in my patients, friends, and family. I’ve found it enormously helpful. In one case, a neurological side effect that was driving a colleague nuts was linked through doublecheckmd.com to a particular statin she was taking. The colleague’s internist told my colleague that the symptoms were unrelated to her medications, but when the colleague discontinued the statin (after obtaining the information of the possible side effect online), the side effect went away. I’ve consulted Epocrates for years, and I find it of limited use compared with doublecheckmd.”

Dear Dr. Beggelman

I wish to express my deep appreciation for your new product DoubleCheckMD. The analysis provided by this remarkable software recently saved the quality of my brother in law’s life and in fact, probably saved his life.

He had suffered an anoxic ischemic episode following hypotension associated with acute pancreatitis. He was in grave condition and required pressors to maintain his blood pressure. His physicians and family were expecting him to die. Surprisingly he survived, however, his mental state became totally confused and belligerent, and for several weeks made no progress toward mental and physical recovery. He was acting like an adult with Tourette’s syndrome. He was being treated with multiple medications (12) for a number of conditions including anxiety, depression, morbid obesity, myasthenia gravis, obstructive uropathy, septicemia, and ischemic heart disease. No one seemed to be in control of the totality of his care and each specialist on the case ordered medications according to their specialty.

We finally consulted DoubleCheckMD and within a few hours learned of the drug interactions that may have been causing his abnormal mental state. His doctors were informed of the findings of the analysis using DoubleCheckMD and they made a concerted effort to remove inappropriate drugs from his regimen. These adjustments led to his recovering his full mental functions within two weeks. He is now beginning to ambulate and discharge to home planning is in sight.

Without DoubleCheckMD it would have been virtually impossible to figure out all of the drug interactions in a time frame that mattered if at all.

Thank you for your efforts to make available this remarkable program that quickly and accurately analyzes drug interactions and points the way to use drugs more effectively.

Sincerely yours,

Stephen A. Kardos
